

Claims

1. A carrying device for golf clubs which device comprises at least two rigid frames each of which has, around its periphery, a plurality of holding means adapted to 5 detachably hold a golf club so that, when two of the said frames are spaced apart and one or more of the golf clubs held in corresponding holding means in each of the frames, a substantially rigid or semi rigid structure is formed with there being no fixed connector connecting the frames.
- 10 2. A carrying device as claimed in claim 1 in which the frame comprises a plate which has indentations around its periphery; each indentation is adapted to hold the shaft of a golf club.
- 15 3. A device as claimed in claim 2 in which an indentation is in the form of a circle of appropriate diameter with part of the circumference being a gap narrower than the width of the shaft of the golf club so the golf club shaft can be inserted through the gap and held by pressure.
- 20 4. A device as claimed in any one of the preceding claims in which each frame has at least fourteen holding means.
- 25 5. A device as claimed in any one of the preceding claims in which the frame is made of a plastics material such as a rigid polyvinylchloride, polypropylene, polycarbonate, polyurethane, nylon or similar polymer or copolymer.
6. A device as claimed in any one of the preceding claims in which there is a raised lip around the periphery of each frame which lip acts as a strengthener for the frame.
- 30 7. A device as claimed in any one of the preceding claims 2 to 6 in which there are means for holding one or more golf balls, tees, pencils, score cards, pitch repairers which may be required by a golfer.
- 35 8. A device as claimed in any one of the preceding claims 2 to 7 in which there are means for holding a bag for storing valuables and money and means whereby a strap can be attached.

9. A device as claimed in any one of the preceding claims 2 to 8 in which there is an arrangement for holding an umbrella.
- 5 10. A device as claimed in any one of the preceding claims together with an overall cover which can be placed around the device.
11. A device as claimed in any one of the preceding claims in which there are no holding means positioned around part of the frames.
- 10 12. A device as claimed in any one of the preceding claims in which at least one part of each frame protrudes beyond golf clubs held in the frame and which part has no holding means for golf clubs in it so that when the frame is placed on the ground the said protruding part of the frame holds the clubs clear of the ground.
